

Brandon Brydson

A legend in the making, Brandon Brydson is on the cusp of bringing authenticity and real musicianship back to the music industry. Brandon moves his audience and speaks right to their souls with his soulful voice and diverse skillset in instruments. The Texas-born, Richmond-based musician shines playing the drums, piano, guitar, or singing during his minimalist live shows. With his raw country/rock sound, Brandon tells stories that don't need words.

Coming from a small town in Texas (Silsby), Brandon quickly developed his skills by playing different instruments and leading worship in his small church. When he was not filling in at church, his aunts, uncles, and mom kept him surrounded with music. Growing up, his family didn't have much, and he cherished the plastic guitar his mother gave him at the age of 3. As a shy kid, he expressed himself best through music emulating old-school country stars - Merle Haggard, George Jones, George Strait, Johnny Cash, and Gary Clark, Jr. To create his current sound, Brandon looks to Brett Eldridge's vocal range and original style as inspiration.

As one of the few to make it out of his small town, Brandon has found his happy ending with Wardenclyffe Entertainment. With a home that feels like family, he is ready to reach new heights and continue to challenge himself musically. Just as music saved his life, Brandon reminds people that they can also come out of a tough place and rise above the darkness.
